

RAIN ALONE CAN RUIN GREATEST FAIR HELD YET

drops, descending from the eight in succession. At night will come the destruction of Pompeii, with its flare of light and its picturesque and realistic depiction of the ruin of that famous city. And for those who want to go up to get a bird's eye view of the city and the surrounding country a captive balloon will be kept in the air, 1,000 feet from the earth, every day and all day long. Other attractions there are, but they are too numerous to mention. Seeing is better than description, and there will be something new to see every day, for no one could take in the whole fair in one day.

The races will begin every day at 1:30 o'clock. There are more entries than ever before, and the races are well known horses. The track has been harrowed and rolled several times, and is now in nearly perfect condition.

Corn Club Parade.
Wednesday has been set aside for the Corn Club parade, when all the school children, city employees and employees of private concerns will be invited to a special holiday. To-morrow will be distinguished by the mounted parade of the Boys' Corn Club, forty counties being represented. Headed by Governor Mann, the parade will form in the square and proceed to Broad and Robinson Streets, from where the procession will go to the grounds. At noon on Thursday the Richmond mounted police will be inspected, and five prizes will be awarded to as many winners. The free attractions will come to a climax Saturday afternoon, when there will be a race between an automobile and Levan's acrobats.

Success of the fair is assured from 9 o'clock this morning, when the gates will first swing open to the public, until midnight Saturday. It will be a continual round of gaiety, supported by the thousand and one educational features on which the directors lay special emphasis. One of the features in the educational exhibits is that afforded by the State and Richmond Health Departments, shown in the main exhibit building. The State Department of Agriculture is also well displayed, and the visitors will be able to observe the good work it has accomplished.
